

Please visit :

<http://www.lettertorobin.org/Home.html>

For your free downloadable copy of “Letter to Robin”

In his book “Letter to Robin” Walt Woods talks about programming your pendulum right from the beginning - it gets its answers from the light source and for the highest good.

Once you program your pendulum it's done.

Can I?

May I?

Should I?

You can ask this as one complete sentence
before you begin to dowse.

If you get a “yes” that means you have a “yes”
for all three.

If you get a “no” that means that at least one of the questions is an issue.

“Can I?”

Am I capable of dowsing?

“May I?”

Do I have permission?

“Should I?”

Is this appropriate for me to be asking?

Ethical boundaries:

Never dowse without someone else's permission.

It's for the good of all concerned.

Keep your intentions pure.

Don't diagnose.

Don't be attached to the answers.

The subconscious goes about getting its answers through the Higher Consciousness.

Come at it from a point of curiosity.

This, in effect, keeps the conscious mind out of being attached or trying to influence the answer.

If you're really attached to the outcome, don't drowse.

Don't take yourself too seriously!
*No one is infallible.

Use your logic mind to temper the information you're receiving.

The higher awareness is not constricted
by our concept of time.
Our higher self looks out
for our best interests.

The phenomenon of beginner's luck.
Everything dowsed will be accurate.
Then they can hit a wall and nothing will dowse accurately.

Go back to the basics and retrain.

(every master was once a disaster)

If you hit the wall, keep going.

The accuracy you're seeking is just behind the wall.

You'll end up being better than you were in the beginning.

The accuracy of your questions determines the accuracy of your answers.

Ask the broadest question about something and keep narrowing it down.

Avoid unspecific and ambiguous questions.

It's important to be specific, otherwise you can get inaccurate or confusing answers.

How you ask a question depends on your personality.

Avoid opinion questions.

Avoid assumptions.

You don't have to avoid future questions because the future is always subject to change.

The future is based on the Law of Probabilities.

If you ask a future question you're going to get a best guess answer back according to the highest probability.

Be flexible.

Blocks to Successful Dowsing

If you have the belief that dowsing is the occult or of evil energy, that's going to be a problem.

Fear and doubt.

Wanting a particular result.

Get a second opinion from someone else.

If you're being asked to dowse something you're not comfortable with, and you feel it could undermine your confidence

DON'T DO IT!!

Protect your confidence in the beginning.

The Huna Tradition

Collective or (Superconscious Mind)

Higher Mind

Conscious Mind
(Intellect)

Lower Mind
(Subconscious)

We're all connected and have access to the greater consciousness

Blocks to Dowsing

Preconceived opinions.

Training in a subject.

Anger or strong emotions.

Mental fatigue.

Hire an Angelic Dowsing Training team!

Question specialist

Stay unattached specialist

... and whoever else can help you

A “yes” doesn’t necessarily mean a “yes” and a “no” doesn’t necessarily mean a “no”.

You may need to go deeper with the process to get the fullness of the situation.

Keep digging.

Expanding Beyond “yes” “no”

The Absolute (or Percentage) Chart

If you just stick with a “yes” or “no” chart some of your answers may be misleading.

Balance Chart

Hormesis Curve

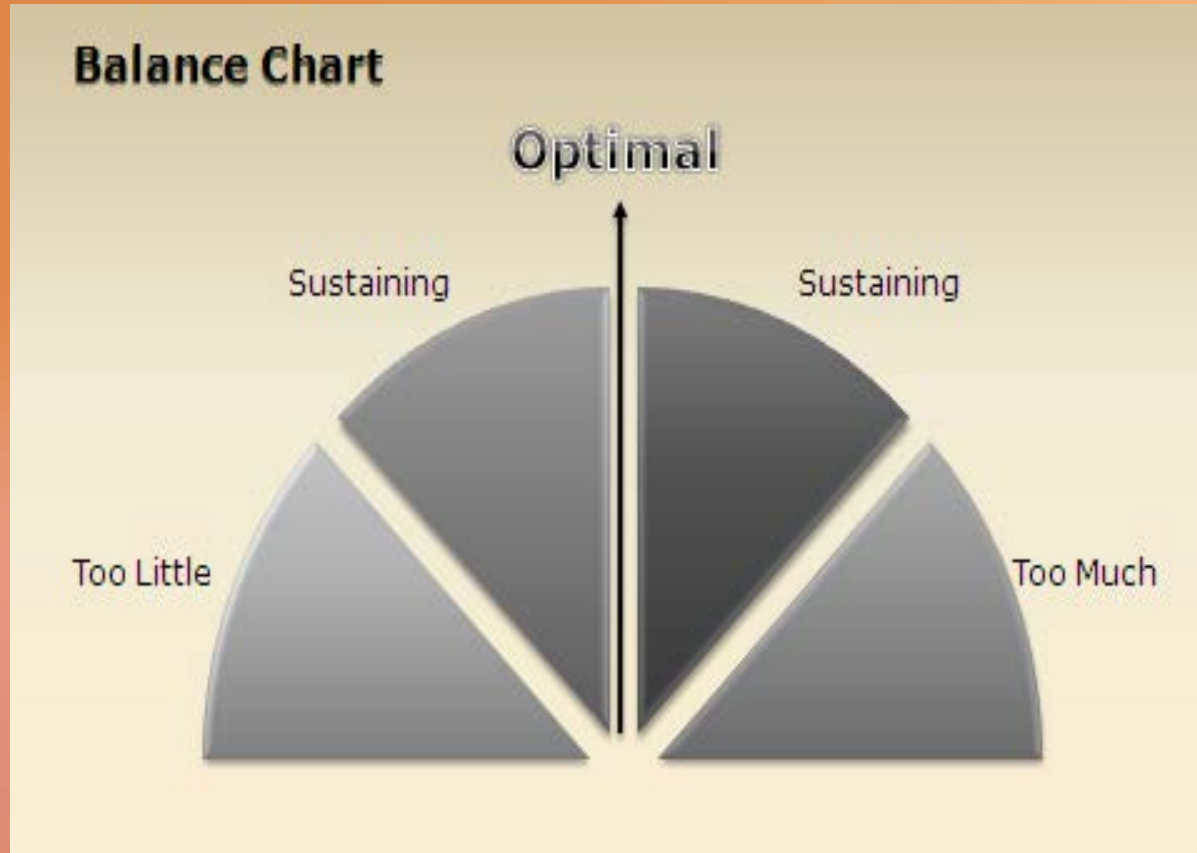

Measuring the effect of a substance on something else.

Almost always falls into a bell-shaped curve.

(example: drinking water)

Balance Chart

The Goldilocks Phenomenon

(this bed is too soft, this bed is too hard, this bed is just right)

Everything in life is about balance.

The balance chart is specific just to you.

The Balance Chart is always going to tell you what is right for you, right now.

Everything in life is about balance.

Are you balanced at this time?

(emotional balance)

Walt Wood suggests you keep your eyes open while using the pendulum.

The very fact of looking at the pendulum and staying curious of what the pendulum is doing occupies the conscious mind.

You do whatever works right for you.

*If you're questioning
the accuracy of your answers:*

Double check

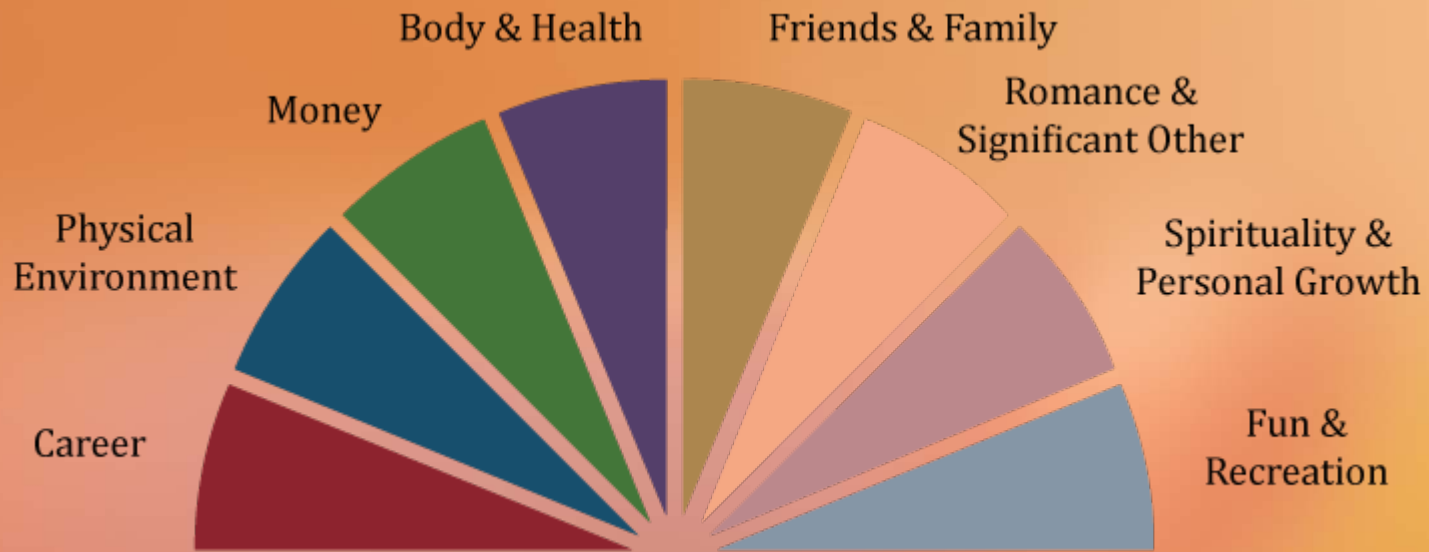

Ask more questions

Try to get an understanding of what's going on

You want to know for you what's the right balance?

My Life Chart

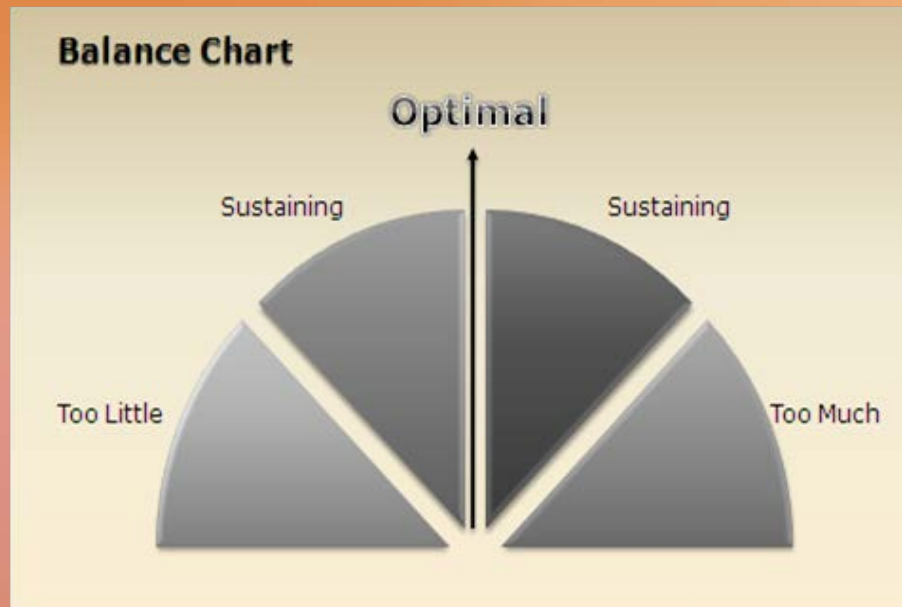

“At this time, which area of my life is most out of balance and needing some attention?”

(example: money)

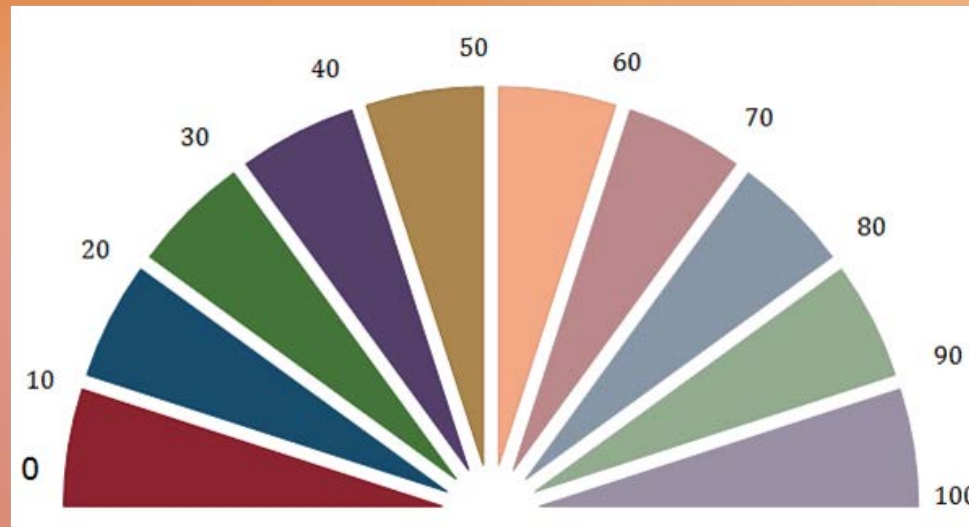

Balance Chart

Show me my level of comfort / experience with incoming money in my life

Percentage Chart

On a scale of 0 - 100 (100 = total comfort) show me how comfortable I am with the energy of money.

This will show you how comfortable you are with the incoming energy and where you need to improve.

Use a combination of the charts to cover many aspects of your questions.

Start with the broadest questions and narrow down.

Your answers are going to be dependent upon the quality of your questions.

by Dale Olson

The Pendulum Charts can be of great help with keeping your questions clear, precise, consistent and neutral.

Covers all aspects of health and healing, everyday decision-making, and intuitive problem-solving.

available through CreativeMystic.com under Store - Amazon recommendations

Ideas of great charts from this book for life coaching clients:

Personal Motivators

What is Going on?

What am I Telling Myself?

Verify answers with “yes” “no”.

Follow the lead of your pendulum.

Your Higher Guidance may be trying to tell you to dig deeper.

Perhaps there’s a different chart
you need to explore.

You can create your own chart to suit your needs.

Create one that speaks to you.

Programming Your Pendulum

Purpose of programming:

You can ask multiple questions, and think about a subject ahead of time, so you can work out all of the details prior to actually asking your question.

(if there's research involved)

Once you have your must-have's or the exact questions that must be fulfilled, you're going to program in the criteria.

Processing = a clockwise (positive) spin.

The pendulum is a very self empowering tool.

You are the instrument.

The information is coming through you.

For most of us it's really nice to have a meter to read. It will open up an intuitive door and is truly like having a psychic with you 24/7.

Just have fun with it!

